DAYTON, Ohio, December 21, 1971 --- Full-time undergraduate students in the University of Dayton's School of Business Administration now have the opportunity to take laboratory work experiences for credit.

A new program, under the coordination of Brother Paul Merland, S.M., will allow students to work 10 and one-half to 21 hours a week in a greater Dayton-area organization, doing work that relates to their major field of study. The program is non-paying and is exempt from the provisions of the federal Fair Labor Standards Act.

A pilot semester for the program will run from January-April, 1972. It will be open to approximately 12 students. After evaluation and final approval, the program will extend its enrollment for following semesters.

Students are beginning to register for both the pilot semester and following semesters. Industrial, commercial, health care, education, and governmental organizations within the greater Dayton-area may begin listing available Internships with the Internship Office by requesting the Employer's Availability Survey Form at 229-3120 or by writing the Internship Office, School of Business Administration, University of Dayton, Box 147, Miriam Hall, Dayton, Ohio 45409.
